

Faculty: Release Grades on Specific Date

Hart Wilson - 2024-06-16 - Comments (0) - Faculty

Moodle makes it easy to hold assignment grades back until all grades have been assigned. You can use this feature for assignments, forums, and manually created gradebook items. Quiz score availability is controlled through Review options.

Head's up: By default, hidden grades are included in student totals, so an individual student could calculate a score that has not yet been released.

1. With editing turned on in your course, open the gradebook and locate the activity.
2. Click on the Edit icon in the Controls cell at the top of the column.
3. Open the Show more.... link.
4. Scroll down to the Hidden until option and check the Enable box.
5. Set the date and time that you want the scores to become available to students.
6. Scroll down and Save changes.

The image shows a sequence of three screenshots from the Moodle gradebook interface, connected by red arrows indicating the flow of the process.

- Top Screenshot: Shows the 'Controls' cell at the top of a gradebook column for 'Exercise #3'. A red box highlights the 'Edit' icon (a gear) in the top right corner of the 'Controls' cell.
- Bottom Left Screenshot: Shows the 'Grade item' settings for 'Exercise #1'. A red box highlights the 'Show more...' link next to the 'Grade type' field.
- Bottom Right Screenshot: Shows the 'Hidden until' settings. The 'Hidden until' section is highlighted with a red box. The 'Enable' checkbox is checked, and the date is set to 'June 13, 2024'.
